Baxter Edizioni Limitate Paola Navone's new collection for Baxter

For the January 2011 edition of Maison&Objet Baxter, in conjunction with Paola Navone, is offering a collection of Limited Editions.

Products that have already had their own experience and story have been revisited. Now they are being re-introduced with a new image, new materials and new finish.

These 'new' products assume a fresh, decorative appearance. They become unique objects, almost like sculptures, that evoke worlds and sensations which are far-off in time and space.

The style is eclectic just like Baxter's aptitude for design. The resulting ambience is a fascinating union between baroque, primitive, archaic and homely memories.

The leather has undergone a real metamorphosis. It is processed like a fabric; patinated, dyed, finished, distressed by hand and embroidered. Then all of a sudden the leather is like a new material, partnered with metal, backstitched, sheathed, lined and cut out.

An unexpected, contemporary decorative repertoire is created.

New products introduced include:

BIDU and GOA, tables in cedar wood with a new special wax finish, combined with an iron sheet, with varied, irregular forms;

ABATJOUR, a series of suspended lights, wall lights and floor lamps which, with their paste-coloured shades and extravagant array of trimming, evoke tastes from other times;

NEPAL, small armchairs with a soft iron, varnished structure, covered in Mongolian leather.
