

Television of the jungle

Qrater is an attractive campfire dish that can be used in the garden and in open spaces. All you need is to light the wood logs and the result is pure magic. It is a very original and heartwarming form of togetherness that sometimes people even refer to as “the television set of the jungle”. Obviously, options like individual grills, skewers, and blankets also form a part of this unique experience of being together around the fire.

Woodstock is a wood rack including a chariot. Why not use the trolley to save your aching back when transporting your crates of Belgian beer?

© design by Dirk Wynants, 2004

ater + n° 11 woodstock

